

Eastern Illinois University
Department of Sociology, Anthropology, Criminology
Assistant Professor of Criminology Position Announcement

The Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Criminology at Eastern Illinois University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Criminology to begin August 2020. A Ph.D. in Criminology or related field (e.g. Criminal Justice, Sociology) at time of appointment is required, however ABD applicants will be considered. Graduate training in Sociology is preferred.

We are seeking candidates with teaching and research experience in criminology and criminal justice who can teach existing undergraduate courses in the criminology and criminal justice major and develop new courses within their specialty areas. Specific areas of specialization are open but should complement existing department strengths and course offerings, with preference given to candidates who can contribute to both our Criminology and Sociology curricula. Demonstrated commitment to diversity and experience with promoting inclusive excellence is required.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, contact information for three professional references, unofficial graduate transcripts, and statements of teaching philosophy and research agenda to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/68682>. Questions about the position may be directed to Dr. Darren Hendrickson, chair of the Department, at: dhendrickson@eiu.edu. In order for your application to be given full consideration, all materials must be received by November 22, 2019.

Eastern Illinois University is a comprehensive public university that places priority on teaching excellence for a student body in a residential setting. Eastern Illinois University is consistently named one of the top Midwestern public universities in its class by U.S. News & World Report.

Eastern Illinois University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer – minority/female/disability/veteran – committed to achieving a diverse community.